

PLAYGROUND EXHIBIT IN SCHOOLS TODAY

Products of Harnessed Energies of Hundreds of Children Are Being Shown.

Remember the days when Dick, aged ten, used to tear down fences and literally raise the roof off the house in his effort to give vent to his desire to "do something" in the summer? And the sister used to be about as destructive in her unaided efforts at playing at "housekeeping"?

Dick and Nancy are given something to do now. More than a dozen school playgrounds this week are showing thousands of articles, the products of the harnessed energies of hundreds of children who have been kept off the street.

They liked it, too. Around every exhibit in the school playgrounds today stood groups of children, disconsolate because their playtime is ended for the summer on these grounds. After this week they will carry home the embroidery, carpentry, metal work, crocheting, embroidery, basketry, weaving, and dresses they have made on the grounds this season.

Parents Looking At Work.

But all this week week the parents are looking over the work. Beginning today school officials, including members of the Board of Education, are to make inspection tours of the grounds. This evening a special feature of the exhibit at the Grover Cleveland School will be a lawn fete given by mothers of the neighborhood. Throughout the evening the school orchestra, the only playground orchestra in the city, will play. One of the features of the work at this school are the garments dyed, as well as made, by the pupils. The dyeing work was taken up there for the first time this year with marked success.

There is no cut and dried program about the work done on the school playgrounds. Each one is a law unto itself, as far as the things made are concerned. On some grounds the boys prefer carpentry work, on others they take better to metal work. Basket making is popular among both boys and girls on nearly all the grounds.

On some of the grounds embroidery has been developed to the stage of a fine art by the girls. Into pillow cases and other articles nursery rhymes have been worked.

There was serious business on some of the playgrounds, too. At the schools during the play hours more than 200 children who had failed to pass in the winter gathered to make up back work. About 150 of these are expected to pass examinations today, and go on with their classes as the result of their extra summer effort.

Scenes of Exhibits.

Schools at which the exhibits are to be seen this week include: White-Polk, Seventh and P streets; Arthur, Third and K streets southwest; Bryan, Thirteenth and B streets southeast; Congress Heights, at Congress Heights; Chey Chase, at Chey Chase; Grover Cleveland, Eighth and T streets northwest; Ketcham, Fifteenth and D streets east; Jefferson, Sixth and D streets southwest; Ludlow, Ninth and G streets northeast; Morgan, between Champlain and Eleventh streets northwest; Monroe, Columbia road, between Georgia and Sherman avenues; Petworth, Georgia avenue and Shepherd street; Powell, school street, near Bank road; Wallace, Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

Colored—Birney, Nichols avenue, Hillsdale; Langston, P street between North Capitol and First streets northwest; McGruder, M street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets northwest; Giddings, G street, between Third and Fourth streets southeast; and Phillips, Twenty-eighth and N streets northwest.

Uncle Sam's Buffalo Herd Now on Increase

Uncle Sam has sixty-two buffalo, thirty-two bulls and thirty cows, on the Wichita National Forest in Oklahoma, which is also a Federal game preserve. The herd was increased this spring and summer by the arrival of ten calves, eight of them pure bred.

According to a report just made to the Forest Service by the supervisor in charge, the herd is in good condition and promises to continue increasing at a rapid rate.

The bulls are kept in a separately fenced pasture. Three years ago the Wichita herd was but half as large as it is now. Other game animals, including elk and antelope are increasing.

U. S. Interests Warned Contracts With Yuan Will Be "Repudiated"

Agents of Sun Yat-Sen Serve Formal Notice—Revolutionary Party Expects to Return to Power.

Japanese Designs on China Giving Concern to World.

By JUDSON C. WELLIVER.

American agents of Sun Yat-Sen, first president of the Chinese republic, have within the last few days served formal notice on a large number of industrial corporations in this country that any contracts they may make with the present government of China will be repudiated, along with the obligations they involve, whenever the revolutionary party returns to power in China.

Service of this notice was made under instructions from Dr. Sun, and the action is regarded as having considerable significance. It has been announced recently that China is going to build a modern navy, especially strong in submarines and destroyers. It is perfectly understood that under present conditions, that navy would really be little more than an auxiliary to the Japanese navy, provided, however, on the basis of the credit of China.

JAPAN'S THE MASTER VOICE.

So long as the world does not fully appreciate the import of what has recently occurred in China, suggestions that the Peking government is going to build a navy and organize a great army will not be taken very seriously. These things have recently been published from Peking, and only the initiated realized that they meant the beginning of Japanese reorganization, or organization rather, of the military and naval potentialities of China.

With an effective revenue system, China would be possessed of a vast public revenue, and Japan is a master in the art of getting revenues out of the people. The present anomalous situation in China is exactly such an one as serves Japanese purposes.

China announces that she is going to build a great navy and muster a powerful army. The Chinese people themselves are expected to believe that their army will represent them, that their navy will fight their battles. But Tokyo, in fact, is inspiring and directing these activities, through its tool, Yuan Shi-Kai, the Chinese revolutionist. The hand is the hand of Yuan, but the master's voice is the voice of Japan.

A Theme to Conjure With.

Chinese wealth, credit, resources, patriotism, building a military establishment for Japan to use when time shall be ripe, presents a theme to conjure with. It has been reported that in the early stages of the enlistment for the army it was necessary to put a limit on the numbers that would be accepted; too many offered themselves. Such a spirit, among a nation that numbers 400,000,000, stands for possibilities of military power that make the mightiest of empires now shaking Europe seem insignificant. China could match, in numbers, all Europe.

Japan has not yet won its game in China, however. The revolutionary leaders are making desperate efforts to convince the Chinese people that they must not trust or support Yuan. Their hope is that the new revolution, aimed against Yuan, can yet be organized before the power of Japan is so far consolidated as to be able to defy the republican movement. To this end they are working to bring about a crisis as soon as possible, hoping that Japan may not have the audacity thus early to avow her real purpose to seize control of China, after assuring the powers of the world that her twenty-one conditions forced upon China did not interfere with Chinese independence or integrity.

Japanese Grip To Be Fixed.

That there will be much delay on the part of Japan, for the sake of appearances, is not expected by anybody. It has been the Japanese method to prepare first, and then to make the occasion for striking. That was the story of the war against China in 1894; it was repeated in the Manchurian war a decade later, and now, another decade having passed, another opportunity has presented itself. The pretext will not be hard to find. An uprising of some sort can be staged easily enough if the genuine one is not provided by the revolutionists.

the effort will not be undertaken. It is not believed that at this time a response would be secured.

Dr. Sun himself, it is reported, may come to America in the near future and attempt to get his case before the American public. If he does, there will be widespread interest in what he will say; for if he talks to the American people as he is represented to feel, he will never again be able to manifest himself publicly in Japan, or any other part of China where the Yuan authorities dominate.

He is, however, a man of marvelous daring and versatility. He is reputed to have performed many dangerous missions in China while in disguise; and there has recently been a feeling that at the present moment he may be out of Japan, possibly in China, perhaps on his way to this country.

At any rate, his correspondents have not received answers to letters that in the ordinary course would have drawn replies before this time, and they know that he has been considering withdrawal from Japan.

Paper Sues Editor To Recover $5,923

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Alleging that the defendant caused it to pay unnecessarily for articles sent in by press agents, the Sun Printing and Publishing Association has begun in supreme court two actions against George R. Miner, formerly editor of its Sunday supplement. There are two actions, one for the recovery of $5,923 and the other for $2,500, each with interest.

A co-defendant, whose name is stated to appear on the "Capital Traction" paper, edited with authorship of the articles in question, is named in each action. It is alleged in the complaints that the articles were furnished free by "press agents" seeking publicity for various institutions, persons, and projects, and that neither the co-defendant nor any other persons were entitled to payment for them. A schedule of more than 100 of the articles in question is submitted in the complaint.

Mr. Miner has denied all the allegations.

Woman Slightly Hurt In Street Car Crash

A rear-end collision between two street cars of the Capital Traction Company, at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue late yesterday, resulted in slight injuries to Mrs. Margaret Bernard, of 1515 Fifth street southeast, who was riding on the rear car.

The accident occurred when the motor of the forward car stopped. It was suddenly struck by the rear car, which was crossing the tracks.

FINAL 1915 ECLIPSE IS WITH US TODAY

It Will Only Be Annular, However (Whatever That Is), and Can't Be Seen Here.

Old Sol makes his farewell appearance in eclipse today for 1915, but he will not show this time in Washington. Today's eclipse is not so much of an eclipse, only an annular one (yes, we looked it up, that means that a ring of the sun is visible around the portion cut off by the moon), but, for the benefit of eclipse fans, it might be noted right here that on next February 3 there is to be a star (or rather a sun) eclipse performance.

Washington will see the February performance only as a partial eclipse, but in the south Pacific, through Panama, and in Southern Ireland, the eclipse will be a total one. Observations all over the globe are preparing to send eclipse junkets, and preparations already are being made for the swift and short work to be done within the five minutes that the light of the sun will nearly cut off from the earth.

If you like to keep the dates of eclipses in your engagement book, it should be jotted down that the moon will go bo-peeping at us in Washington, on January 19, of next year, and also on July 14. Just when the Nationals will be eclipsed is not recorded, and not even the Naval Observatory will tell.

The Naval Observatory will not send an expedition next February. It costs too much, and there is too little to learn. About all that can be discovered from an eclipse now concerns the sun's atmosphere and the Naval Observatory has more practical things to do than worry about the surroundings of the sun.

In all 1916 will be a busy year for eclipses. Besides those mentioned above, there will be two more of the sun, but neither will be visible in Washington.

Meet in Memorial to Victim of Lightning

In memory of its late president, Prof. A. J. S. Bourdeau, a special meeting was held at Pettaquamscutt, Eleventh and E streets northwest, last night by the Federation of American Patriotic Societies. Prof. Bourdeau was killed July 18 by a lightning bolt at Takoma Park. Following memorial addresses, S. J. MacFarren discussed "Taxation, and Presidents for One Term Only."

Glad to Recommend Fruitola and Traxo

Mrs. Norforth Says She Suffered
With Gall-stone for Several Years Without Relief.

MRS. ROSA NORFORTH.

In a letter to Pinus laboratories, Mrs. Rosa Norforth, Monticello, Ill., says: "I cannot praise Fruitola and Traxo too highly as I consider it saved my life. I suffered with gallstones for several years and could not get any relief until your preparation was recommended to me. It has been six months since I took the last bottle and I feel that I am entirely well. Have anyone doubting the merit of your preparation write me as I will be only too glad to recommend Fruitola and Traxo to anyone suffering from gallstones."

Fruitola and Traxo are the names used to identify two preparations that are taken in combination. Fruitola acts on the intestinal organs as a powerful lubricant, softening congested masses and disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, and expelling the accumulation with almost instant relief. Traxo is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach with most beneficial results and is recommended in connection with Fruitola to build up and restore the system.

tem that has become run down and weakened through the suffering incident to the derangement of the digestive organs.

In the files of the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., are many letters gratefully acknowledging the satisfactory results following the use of Fruitola and Traxo. Arrangements have been made for the distribution of these excellent remedies by leading drug stores everywhere. In Washington Fruitola and Traxo can be obtained at O'Donnell's drug store, 904 F street northwest.
